

Goals & Expectations

The SERVICE year is like a tree with three branches: spirituality, community & service. It is hoped that you SERVICE experience will foster growth in all three areas of your life. For such growth to occur, it is important to discover your personal goals and subsequently to transform some of these goals into goals for the group. Try to be honest and realistic in your reflection.

Areas of Spiritual Growth:

❖

❖

❖

Personal activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Group activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Concrete action I can commit to personally:

Concrete action I ask the group to commit to:

Areas of Community Growth:

❖

❖

❖

Personal activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Group activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Concrete action I can commit to personally:

Concrete action I ask the group to commit to:

Areas of Growth in Service:

❖

❖

❖

Personal activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Group activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Concrete action I can commit to personally:

Concrete action I ask the group to commit to:

Areas of Growth in seeing my SERVICE experience as an integrated one:

❖

❖

❖

Personal activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Group activities that may lead to such growth

❖

❖

❖

Concrete action I can commit to personally:

Concrete action I ask the group to commit to:

Commitment Contract

In order for growth to occur, you must articulate your commitment to making it happen. It is also helpful to build in accountability to yourself, to others, and to God.

Actions which I can personally commit to myself:

❖

❖

Actions which I can personally commit to God:

❖

❖

Actions which I can personally commit to my community:

❖

❖

Actions which I commit to together with my community:

❖

❖